1 First for abateing and reformeing the excesse of houshold either by [Right margin: 1 Parliam[en]t or 2 Councell Table]

1 By Parliam[en]t

A[nn]o 2: E:2 an ordinance was made prohospitito Regis in ease of the people opprressed w[i]th purveyance, [Right margin: Ex vngl manucrip: fo: 29] by reason of the gratnes therof And the motiue of that ordinance was al honneur de dieu et a'l honneur, et au profit de son saint Esglise, et a'l honneur et au profit de son peuple selono droit et reson del serement q[ue] le dit n[ot]re Seigneur le Roy fist a son Coronm[en]t And about this time was the [Right margin: Ex libre dicto Alila Regio] Kings house newe formed, and every officer limited his charge and Salary.

A[nn]o 36: E:3 the houshold was reformed at the [Right margin: Rot parl: an[nn]o 36: E: 3] petic[i]on of the people

A[nn]o 1^o: R: 2: the houshold was brought to such moderac[i]on of expence as may bee answerable to the [Right margin: Rot parl: a[nn]o 1: R: 2:] reueneus of the Crowne and a Com[m]ission granted at the petic[i]on of the Com[m]ons to survey and abate the the houshold, w[hi]ch not takeing the desired effect A[nn]o 5: the Com[m]ons petic[i]on, that the excessiie number of [th]e meniall servants maybee remidⁱed or otherwise the

Realme will be utterly undone, and that his houshold might not exceed the ordinary Reueneus of the Realm &c

A[nn]o 4:H:4 the people craue a reformac[i]on of the King[es] [Left margin: Rot parl: a[nn]is 4:1:et:11:H: 4] house And a[nn]o 7^o that he would dismise some of the retynue, since it was now more chargable, but lese hon[oura]ble then his p[ro]genitors and that the antient ordinances of the houshold in ease of the people might be kept, and the officers of the houshold sworne to put the ordinances and statuts in due execuc[i]on, and so consider the iust greifes of his subiects by uniust puruiance contrary to the statute, that heereaft[e]r vous poiez viure le vostre biens propres in ease de v[ot]re peuple w[hi]ch the king willinglie doth, as appeareth [Left margin: Ex ordinat in rot act. conc: a[nn]o 11 :H:4: marked RR] by an ordinance in Councell, whereby the charge of the houshold is limited to 16000 markes

A[nn]o 12: et: 18: H: 6: the charge of the kings house [Left margin: Rot parl: a[nn]o 12 et 18: H:6:] is reduced to a certaintie, and lessened by petic[i]on & order in p[ar]lem[en]t

A[nn]o 12: E:4 the king promiseth to abate his houshold, [Left margin: Ex rot parl: a[nn]o 12: E: 4] and hereafter to liue upon his owne, So setling a new forme of his Court w[hi]ch is extant in many hand[es] [Left margin: Ex lib. ordin hospit tempo: E: 4] intituled ordinations for the Kings house.

And to ease the charge of the Kings house, the queens haue allowed a portion of their Iointure suiteing to their owne expence to the Treasurer of the houshold, As did Phillip the wife of [Left margin: Rot par: a[nn]o 27 E: 3: et 7: H:4] Edward the 3d And so likewise Henrie the 4th his wife a[nn]o 7^o And Henry the 6th his wife [Left margin: Mich: Recept 27: H: 6: no: 9] allowed 2000l a yeare out of her estate.

2 Excesse of houshold abated and reformed by Councell table.

[Right margin: Ex Aula Regis fact tempore Ed: 3] Edw: the 3d caused his houshold to bee certeine in allowances, makeing thereof a Booke by way of Ordinance, w[hi]ch is called Aula Regis

[Right margin: Act Conc: 8: H:4 marked PP] H:4: councelled his sonne th prince, and the rest of his Councell to ordaine such moderate governance of his house, that may conteyne au pleisir du dieu et du peuple

[Right margin: Mich Recept 27:H:6:] H:6: a[nn]o 27: reduced his charge of house to 12000l whereof 2000l was out of the queenes Iointure.

[Right margin: Ex lib: ordinat hospit temp: E:4] E:4:a[nn]o 12 reformeth it againe and publisheth a booke of ord[e]rs for their better direcc[i]on w[hi]ch afterward Cardinall Woolsey for the more hon[ou]r and proffitt of the king amendeth, and still remaineth the ground [Right margin: Ord: Cardin Woolsey temp: H:8:] worke of the p[rese]nte gouernm[en]t, w[hi]ch being now somuch corrupted, it may seeme fitt, either to put downe the tables, and leaue all attend[an]ts to allowance of money, as France and Spaine doth, or else by setting vp the hall againe, reduce the houshold, to the best, First, and most magnificent order, so all things being spent in publiq[ue] wilbee to the kings hon[ou]r and secret wast by chamber Dyett and purloyning, pr[e]vented to the kings benefit, For, there is nev[er] a backdore in the Court w[hi]ch cost not the K[ing] so little as 2000l yearelie, And few mean houses in Westm[inste]r that are not mainteyned w[i]th food and firing by the stealth of the Court Instrum[en]ts.

2 By abateing and reformeing the excess of retynue and Fovorites.

[Right margin: Ex Geruasio Dorobernencis] Thus H [th]e 2d did w[i]th Will[ia]m de Ipre Earle of Kent, a Netherland[e]r, and all his Countrymen & follow[e]rs when they grew heavie and a burthen to this State, vnable to foster more then her owne Children./

[Left margin: Ex Ric Canonico in vita:R:1:] Thus R: 7th did w[i]th Otho Earle of York and all the Bavarians, although hee was the son of his sister, takeing from him that Earldome, for [tha]t the people op[p]osed it, and giueing him in exchange the title of Poictow.

[Left margin: Ex lib. semeti Albani et Willi Rishanger et liter Baron: PP] Thus H the 3d did w[i]th his halfe Breth'ren the Earle of Pembroke and B[isho]pp of Winchest[e]r and all the Poictons their follow[e]rs.

[Left margin: Ex ordinat 3: E:2: in lib: legu[m] MS: fo: 285] Thus E: [th]e 2d did by his ordinance Que tout le lignage sire pieres de Gaueston soit entierem[en]t ouste destre entoins le Roy et de son seruis Item Burgois de Til soit ouste et non fiaz q[ue] est Mareschall del Eschequer Item q[ue] Bertram Assabi et son frere et seus de Gascoigne et Aymerick de Friscomband soint oustre, et terres prises en le main le Roy.

[Left margin: Ex rot par: a[nn]o 10:R:2:] Thus R:2: did w[i]th the Bohemians a[nn]o 10: by an Act of p[ar]lem[en]t at the pet[it]ion of the people surcharged

Thus H:4: did w[i]th the Gascoignes & welsh, in like sort ov[er]burdening and impouerishing the king & Realme w[i]th p[er]petuall suites, so that in Court (as [th]e Record saith there were ne ad nul substance des personnes vaylantes et suffesants si besoigne seroit mes de Rascaile pur la grendre part

3 By abateing and reforming the excess of guifts and Rewardes

Hence was it that the wisdom of former times foreseeing the mis^cheife that the open hand of [Left margin: Rot par a[nn]o 11 R: 2: A[nn]o 2:4: et 5:H 4 no: 9:] the soueraigne may bring the state into, made a Law: 11: R:2: that whatsoeu[er] cometh, to the k[ing] by Iudgm[en]t, escheate, forfeiture, wardship, or any other wayes, shall not bee giuen away, And that the procurer of any s^t such guift shall be punished.

[Right margin: Rot par: a[nn]o 7:H:4] Thus the p[ar]lem[en]t conteynued 7:H:4 vntill the king were out of Debt, making frustrate the grant and ordeined a penaltie of double value to euery mover or procurer of any such.

[Right margin: Rot par: a[nn]o 11:H:4:no:23] The like a[nn]o 11: H: 4: And that noe petic[i]on for anie thing should bee deliu[er]ed the king but in pr[e]sence of [th]e Councill, who might examine it, least the kings wants should light vpon the Com[m]ons

And to keep the hand of H: 6: from wastfull giueing, [Right margin: Par: pl: 2: a[nn]o 25 H: 6:m: 24] the Councill induced him to coney to the Arch[bisho]pp of Canterbury and others all proffitts of wards mariages releife, Escheates and forfeitures to defray the charge of his house [Right margin: Ex rot par: a[nn]o 28: H: 6:] It is one of the greatest accusac[i]ons ag[ains]t [th]e Duke of Som[m]erset for suffringe the king to giue away the poss[essi]ons and proffitts of the Crowne in mann[e]r of spoyle, so are the words of the Record.

[Right margin: Ex rot par: a[nn]o 1 H: 4:] And it was made the first and cheifest Article to depose R:2: for wasting and bestowing the lands & reuenuew of the Crowne, vpon vnworthy persons, & thereby ou[er]charging the Com[m]ons by exaction.

3 By rousing of money and improuing the reuenuew of the Crowne eith[e]r

And those are such landes as goe vnd[er] the title of Terra Regis, in the Booke of [Right margin: Lib: Doomsday] Doomesday, and were the landes of Edw: the confessor. Of other Landes I neu[er] obserued question, Neither do euer finde that Acts of resumption euer reached to Landes that were sold for valuable consideration.

By passinge in Fee farme, except places of the kings residence, Parks, Spatious wasts, or Forrests, all the Landes of the Crowne w[hi]ch remaine either in the annexation, Costodie Landes, or the queenes Ioynture and exceed not yearly 3200l, Theis although largelie estated out in seu[er]all natures, some for liues some for years, will ~~not~~^{one} with the other, bee advanced to a treble Rent, w[hi]ch amounting to 64000l And if the offer bee not made restrictive for the new ten[an]t, there is no doubt but his Ma[jes]tie shall finde readie and hartie vndertakers amongst [th]e gentree and Nobilitie too, who haue any place of residence neere any of his Ma[jes]ties mannors, & the kings securitie the better, since their abilities will settle the Fee Farme Rent vpon more land then the purchase

If any shall obiect ag[ains]t this, a losse by Fines and proffittes of Courts, a preiudice in not serveing necessarilie (as of late) by sales or diminution of Regalities in seizure of so many Royalties

It may bee answered to the First, That the casuall p[ro]ffitts of Co[ur]ts neu[er] defrayed to the p[rese]nte offic[er]s their Fee and expences. And this appeareth by a Collecc[i]on made the 44th yeare of the late queene, where the totall issue of such certeine charge exceeded the receipt of such changes about 8000l

To the second if looking vpon the seu[er]all rates of the kings Landes exposed to the Fee Farme sales, wee fynd some at 50 others at 21 yeares, as to the late Contractors, and make out of theis extreames a medium of the largest 40 yeares, and set on the other side the Com[m]on and current estimate for dead rents 15 yeares p[ur]chase, wee must finde, that 50l land sold vnimproved respectiulie to the like trebled by a Fee Farme, wilbee 250l losse to his Ma[jes]tie in the sale.

As for Regallities, though it may add somewhat to a Sub[jec]t in increasinge such his pettee Com[m]aund it can nothing to a Soveraigne, whose transcendent power drownethⁱⁿ it all such subordinate dependances and ^{reguards.} {weguards}

But if wee consider besides the former imp[ro]um[en]t the increase of casuall aduantage and diminution of certeine charge, wee shall haue iust cause not to continue this course.

For if the Com[m]ission[e]rs in this busines may bee ordered by instruction to reserue vpon euery mannor of aboue 30l p[er]anu[m] a tenure ⁱⁿ of of Knights service by halfe a Fee, and aboue 50l in Capite by an intire Fee, and of the purchase to pay his rent into the ^{his} Receipt of

himselpe halfe yearly, and strick there his tally, the former will aduance the revenue accedentall of the Crowne in wardshipps, primer seisin, alienations, and aydes, at the latter cut off at once so many their vnnesessarie Receiuors, Auditors, Stewards, Bayliffs and Clarke, as stand the king in yearly aboue 12000l

As for other dues or casuall Reuenews, w[hi]ch now fall vnder the Charge of theis officers, the Collection and payment maybee, as it hath beene with the rest, from the time of Hen: 2 vntill late Dayes, layd on the Sheriffs of the Shires and all the accounts left to the two Auditors of Presse to draw vpp, and the Clarke of [th]e Pype to enter in magno Rotulo as in former time; For it must seeme strang to all men of Iudgment, that it should bee with those officers (who had their begining but since the 25 yeare of H:8: by addic[i]on of his new reuenews of 15000l from the suppressd Manasteries) otherwise then w[i]th all things in nature and reason cessante causacessat et effectus, not to bee discontinued, when as all Crowne annexed Lands, that gaue them their Iust employm[en]t, are, for the most parte, passed from the soveraigne into the subiects possession.

Besides this of a gen[er]all disposing in Fee farme, there hath beene a proiect in p[ar]ticular to enfranchise the Copyholders in the seu[er]all Mannors, w[hi]ch I should hold to bee of more pr[e]iudice to his Ma[jes]tie then the former bringing w[i]th it all the former inconveniences, losse of Fines, Regalities, and advantages of sale, and being without many of [th]e advantages, as Ward[shi]ps, primer seisin, alienac[i]on, & aydes, for noe man will buy Quilletts but in soccage and discontinuance of officers who must still remaine though they can bring the King but little proffitt

[Left margin:2] By Farminge out for yeares lands Casualties or wastes, As in the 7 of Hen: 4 the state held it more iust to helpe the King out of his [Left margin: Rot par a[nn]o 7 H: 4:] owne, then to burthen the Com[m]on wealth, and therefore gaue way by p[ar]lem[en]t to the king to improue vpp his Lands thoug in Lease Prouided that the Lessee should haue refusall of the bargaine if hee would.

And it was not the least of Charitable thrift in the King to reduce much of his wast to habitac[i]on of Christians, especially the remote Forrests, w[hi]ch would increase many thousand Families for his service and bring many thousand pounds to his Coffers.

But in the carriage of this busines, there must bee much caution to pr[e]vent comoc[i]on, For in them there are manie that haue right of Com[m]on sans membre and the resoluc[i]on in agreem[en]t w[i]th them must bee suddaine and confident, For multitudes are ieous and inconstant, and the instrum[en]ts to effect this must bee such as bee neighbors interestted and popular, not strangers; and the First demise to the inhabitants, and at vnder and easie values

As a branch of this may aptlie fall out the benefitt Princes made by a Prerogatiue power of imposing inward and outward upon Comodities ouer and aboue the antient custome or subsidie

The first that vsed this course after the state was settled from a king of a voluntary gou[er]nm[en]t after the Conquest (when as kings ruled more by the edge of the sword then by rule of Law) was H: 3 about the entrance of his Raigne But finding it to bee an apparent ou[er]throw of Com[m]erce and trade and ag[ains]t [Left margin: Magna carta ca 30:] the greate Charter made proclamac[i]on a[nn]o 16 H: 3: in all portes of England, that all marchants might come faciendo rectas et debitas [Left margin: Dors claus a[nn]o 16 H: 3: no:20] consuetudines, nec sibi timeant de malis toltis For it had noe better name then maltolts

[Left margin: Stat a[nn]o 25: E:1] Some impositions being laid by E: 1: hee in anno 25 taketh them away w[i]th promise that neither hee nor his successors should doe [Left margin: Rot par 31: E: 1 m: 42] any such thing w[i]thout assent of p[ar]liam[en]t, granting in a[nn]o 31: to the marchants many im[m]unities, as release of prisage, for w[hi]ch they requite him w[i]th some increase of Customes, [Left margin: Stat 34: E: 1: ca: 1: et: 2] but not as imposed by his owne power, For hee in a[nn]o 34 declareth that noe tallage or

or ayde should bee levied without the assent of p[ar]liam[en]t, nor any thing to bee taken of wools by collor of maltolt

[Right margin: Ordinatio a[nn]o 5: E: 2 cap: 14:] In E: 2: it appeareth the levying of new customes and raising of old, was the destruccion of traffique, and therefore repealed all Maltolts Onlie in a[nn]o 11 et 12 hee taketh by way of loane, and hwe with leave of the marchants [Right margin: Rot Claus a[nn]o 11: E:2] some former increase vpon woolls, ascribinge nothing to any supream power to impose

[Right margin: Rot Fin: 1:E:3 stat: 2: E: 3: ca 9:] The like did E: 3: a[nn]o 10: confirming in a[nn]o 20: the great Charter of Free traffique. But haueing about a[nn]o 5 granted certeine Commis[sio]ns for a new kinde of raising tallage, the people complayned the yeare following, [Right margin: Rot par: 6: E: 3] wherevpon hee repealeth the said Commiss[i]o[n]s, & promiseth neu[er] to asseesse anie but as in time of his Ancestors After in a[nn]o 11: by reason [Right margin: Stat 11: E: 3: cap: 1] of a Stat then made restrayning all men vpon paine of death for transporting any wooles w[i]thout lycense from the king

E: 3 made great advantage by selling of dispensation of that Law, and grounded vpon it many impositions, but it fell so heauy vpon the people, that their discontents so farr increased, that the king was inforced to cause [th]e ArchB[ishop] of Cant to p[er]swade them to patience by [Right margin: Stat 13: E: 3: Rot par a[nn]o 13 E: 3:] his godly exhortac[i]o[n]s, yet notwithstanding hee continued by gentle intermissions the aduantage hee had by that Law, takinge an improuem[en]t of custome for openinge the passage, that there [Right margin: Stat 14: E: 3:] by was shutt in a[nn]o 13 vntill the same yeare the same State made purchase of their former freedome and discharge of the Maltolt by granting the 10th sheafe and Fleece &c

And thus it continued all his Raigne, being a time of greate necessitie and expence by reason of the warrs, hee sometimes taking the advantage either to raise an imposition, or else to gaine an ayde from the people, in discharge thereof, they continuallie vrging the iniurie in barring them their birth right, And the king on the other side the greatnesse of his owne occasions

And it may bee gathered by Record that thus it held on vntill the 15 R: 2: In w[hi]ch yeares^{is} the last petic[i]o[n] ag[ain]st impositions, gen[er]ally grounded (in likely hood) from the kings power in restrayninge or p[er]mitting trade, All the tyme [Left margin: Licence granted by H:4: H:5: H:6: to many m[er]chants w[i]th non obstante any statute:] after although lycense{s} w[i]th non obstante were ordinary, yet were they to priuate p[er]sons, and for p[ar]ticular proporc[i]o[n]s of com[m]odities, whereby the kings succeedinge raised noe lesse benefitt then by sale of any gen[er]all p[er]mission.

[Left margin: Ordinatio Conc a[nn]o 12: H:6] To this of impositions I may add the rule I find a[nn]o 12 H: 6 made in Councell That the value of all goods for paym[en]t of subsidie shall bee rated of Comodities domestique, as they may bee sold beeteene marchant and m[ar]chant, And if Forreine, then so as it shall appeare vpon oath of the marchant or his Factor they stood them in at first. And the gen[er]al maxime w[hi]ch limitts all regall advantage vpon trade of marchantes is ut causa honesta sit et necessaria, Ratio facilis, tempus idoneum

[Left margin: Claus a[nn]o 5: E: 3:] 3: Farming out of Customes. So did E:3: w[i]th the old and new Customes at London for 1000 m[ar]kes monthly, to bee paid into the wardrobe, The like hee did a[nn]o 17:

[Right margin: Lib acquitt inter: H:7: et Dudly] Of the second sorte there are many in H:7 his time, where the K[ing] hath taken money, for writeing to the Iudges of Assize his letters of Favour.

[Left margin:4] For officers, thus did king Iohn w[i]th the Chancellorsh[i]pp selling it for terme of life to Gray for 5000 markes.

Diuerse offices now in the guift of the M[aste]r of the Rolls were ingaged to the Chancellour of treasurer of England, as are to bee seene in Records of H:4: H:5: and H:6: to bee passed by warrant of the kings hand, and vpon some considerac[i]on. And H:7 renewed this course, vsing Dudly as his instrum[en]t to compound w[i]th suitors for those and any other places. And by that Record wee finde that Chauncellor the cheife Iustice, the keepers of most of the Records, the Clerks of the Assize and peace, the Masters of the game and parks, and whatsouever else carrying either proffitt or reputac[i]on, paid to the king some proporc[i]on of money, for their places. Neither is this differ[en]t from the course of other States, For in France [Right margin: Æmilius in victi Lewis: 12] Lewis the 12 (called the Father of his Country) did so w[i]th all offices, not being of Iudicature, w[hi]ch his Successors did not forbear.

[Right margin: Vasques cap: 43/40] In Spaine it is vsuall And Vasques the Spanish Aduocate defendeth the lawfulness of it. And Charles the 5th pr[e]scribeth it to his sonn [Right margin: Instruct Car:5: to Phillip:2:] as a rule in his last instrucc[i]on, drawing his his ground of reason and conveniencie from [th]e example and practise of the See of Rome.

The like might bee of all inferior promoci]ons that are or may bee, in the kings guift, whether Ecclesiasticall, or temporall, if they were after the true value, in proffitt and reputac[i]on, listed into rankes accordinge to the seu[er]all natures of their employm[en]ts respectiuelie [*Left margin:*5] For hon[ou]rs, and that either by pow[er] legall or election.

Of the first, It is onlie in respect of land, whereby euery man is to fyne when the King shall require, that hath abilitie to bee made a Kn[igh]t, and is not, of this sort their bee plentie of examples.

The other out of choise and grace, as Hugo de Putiaco B[isho]pp of Durham was by king R:2: created Earle of Northumberland for a great sum[m]e of money And I doubt not but many of theis times would set their Ambition at as high a price, And for his Ma[jes]tie now to make a degree of hon[ou]r hereditaree, as Baronetts next vnder Barons, and grant them in taile, takeing of euery one 1000l in fyne, it would raise w[i]th ease 100000l, and by a iudicious elecc[i]on bee a meanes to content those worthy p[er]sons in the Com[m]on wealth, that by the confused admission of many knights of the Bath, held themselues all this time disgraced.

[*Left margin:*6] For Coyne and Bullion, by w[hi]ch, although some kings out of a last shift haue seemed to releiue themselues, yet was it (in truth) full of danger and distrust to the Com[m]on wealth, being an assured token of a bankrupt State, and to the Prince in conclusion of most disadvantage, For the renews of the Crowne being com[m]only incerteine Rents, they must, in true value, howsoeu[er] in verball sound, bee abated to the proporci]on that the money shalbee abased. And euery man will rate his com[m]oditie in sale, not according to the account of pence or pounds, but to the weight of the pure silver conteyned in the current money, As for example, that w[hi]ch was before the decrying of the coyne worth 5s: in the pound weight, will (if the allay bee to the halfe) bee held at 10s: And so in euery proporci]on respectiuly; For money is not meerly to bee esteemed in respect of the sculpture or Figure, but it must value in pecunia quantum in massa, And silver is a Comoditie as other wares, and therefore holdeth its estimac[i]on as they doe, according to the goodnes, And the Lo[rd] Treasur[er] Burleigh in a[nn]o 1561 when the current of state Councell affected an abas'm[en]t of Coyne, after a grave deliberac[i]on, advised the queene from it, and never would giue way to any such resoluc[i]on in his time.

But that benefitt w[hi]ch truly the king may make more of bullion then now hee doth, is to erect againe Cambium Regis, his owne Excheq[ue]r, an office as antient as before: H: 3: and so continued vntill the midle of H: 8: the proffitt of it being now ingrossed amongst a few Goldsmiths and would yeald aboue 10000l a yeare, if it were heedfully regarded, and then should the king himselfe keep his mint in continuall worke, and not stand at the deuoc[i]on of others to supply Bullion, and should neu[er] want the materealls if two things were observed. The one to p[er]mitt all men bringing in Bullion to trade outward the value thereof in domestique

Comodities at an abated Custome, the other to abate the mightie indraught of Foreine Manufactures and vnnesessarie wares, that the outward trade might ouer ballance the inward, w[hi]ch otherwise will (as it hath done) draw on [Left margin: Ex Scchio inter Remembr Regis 27o: E:3] this desperate Consumpc[i]on of the Com[m]on wealth, w[hi]ch in a[nn]o 27: E: 3: was otherwise, for then the Exitus exceed the introitus pounds. And in the last times of the late queene as in a[nn]o For at this time the vnmeasurable vse of Luxurious Comodities was brought in, as wyne, spices, silke and finne lynnens &c For of the later sort of aboue ten groates the ell there is aboue 360000l yearly spent, w[hi]ch is halfe [th]e value of our Clothes transported, maketh the State to buy more then they do sell, whereas a good Father of a Familie ought to be vendacem and not emacem. Besides the Condic[i]on of our people is now such that the greater parte neither gett nor saue, w[hi]ch in a priuate house is an apparent argument of ruyninge, and must bee no lesse in a Com[m]on wealth, And it is observed gen[er]allie, that hence the want of Bullion now is such, that there is not money sufficient to pay the lend[er]s their principall, so that vsurie is paid for mony vpon supposition, & not really.

If then his Ma[jes]tie shall bee pleased by advise of his Councell to advantage himselfe any other wise by Coynage, it will bee safer to doe it vpon a simple mettall, then by any imphyant or bett[er] suite, w[hi]ch well gouerned States both moderne & antient vsed. For Rome in her increase & greatest pitch of glory had there money are argento auro puro puto And so haue all the

Monarchies absolute at this Day in Christendome, And I beleeeve it my bee wrought to his Ma[jes]tie of good value, and to the State of much ease, if it may bee put in practise w[i]th discreete caution, & constant resoluc[i]on, For the danger may bee onlie in the ventinge of the quantitie, w[hi]ch may clogg the State w[i]th vsles money, or execution of example, w[hi]ch may worke in by degrees an abasem[en]t of Bullion

The proportion that I would hold beneficiall and safe should bee in the masse at first 120000l, by w[hi]ch his Ma[jes]tie should gaine 10000l cleerlie, in w[hi]ch his Ma[jes]tie should gaine 1000l And the limitation, that none bee inforced to take any but in sum[m]es vnder XXs and then but the twentieth part proporc[i]onable

Against this some may obiect, that it will either not advantage the king so much as is p[ro]iected, either from the difficulty in venting, or facilitie in Counterfeitinge, or else pr[e]iudice the State w[i]th a vselesse money.

The benefitt of the king will easilie fall out, if hee restrayne Retaylors of victuall and small wares from vseing their owne tokens, For in and about London there are aboue 3000 that one w[i]th an other cast yearlie 5l a peece of leaden tokens, whereof the 10th remaineth not to them at the yeares end, when they renewe their store, w[hi]ch amounteth to aboue 15000l And all the rest of this Realme cannot bee inferiour to the Cittie in proporc[i]on And the forme and figure may w[i]th an engine so ~~subtel~~ subtlelie bee milled, that the charge will pr[e]vent all practise of false play For the pr[e]iudice Since London (w[hi]ch is not the 24 part in people of the Kingdome) had in it found 800000 by a late inquirie by order of the late queene, and so falleth out to bee 2d a person in the intire state, it may bee nothing either of losse by the first vttering, being so easie, nor burthen any w[i]th too great a masse at a time, since continuall vse will disperse so small a quantitie into so many hands. But on the other side, it will bee to the meaner sort (except the retaylors that made as much advantage formerly of their owne tokens, as the king shall now of necessary vse and benefitt, For the buy[er]s hereafter shall not bee tyed to one sellor and his badd Comodities, as they are still, when his tokens, here after made currant by authoritie shall leaue him to the choise of any other Chapman, and to the poore in this time of small charitie it will bee of much releife, since many are like to giue a farthing alms that will not parte w[i]th a greater sum[m]e

Besides it cannot but pr[e]vent much wast of silver that by the myntinge pence, and halfe pence is occasioned, there will bee noe cause hereaft[er] to cutt any Bullion into proporci[on] so apt for losse. what that hath beene may bee coniectured if wee marke but of the greate quantities from the penney downwards since H:8: tyme stamped, how few remaine; whereas of all the Coynes from three pence vpwards w[hi]ch are manuable (or manuall) plentie passe still in dayly payments

Concurrent Iurisdicc[i]on as the Pope had in former tymes

Besides theis there are two of noe meane Com[m]oditie

The one is grounded vpon a Concurrent Iurisdicc[i]on w[i]th the ordinary in the Diocesse, w[hi]ch the king, by haueing the power Papall in that point invested in him by act of p[ar]liam[en]t may exercise by his Com[m]ission or otherwise remitt to the ordinarie for some valuable respect. Thus did [Right margin: Ex composit orig: inter Woolsey et ArchB[ishop] Cant dat: 14: H: 8] Cardinall Wolsey w[i]th Wareham the Archb[isho]pp & all other the B[isho]pps of the kindome, after he had gott his Legatiue power, And this if it were put in practise would drawe to the King 20000l into his Coffers.

[Right margin: Tenthes of the Church landes now in [th]e Laytie]

The other is the short accompt yeilded the king of such Eccl[esiast]i[c]all tenths and duties as were often & annually paid vnto the Pope in former times, & now by statute invested in the Crowne, For in former times the See of Rome received them not, as only out of the meere spiritualities, but also from out of all the temporalities of spirituall p[er]sons, w[hi]ch Landes being now devided from the Church into the hands of the Laytie, yet ought they to pay this duties, since they were settled in the Crowne by a former Law, and noe subsequent ever hath discharged them
